June 4th, 2020 - Bahman Ghobadi's No One Knows About Persian Cats was co-written by the journalist Roxana Saberi who was accused of espionage and imprisoned in Iran in 2009. It's about two young musicians who break the law by trying to set up an underground rock band in Tehran. The movie is a stirring attack on the regime's censoring of the arts as well as a celebration of a generation of young people.

June 2nd, 2020 — Cinema and politics have interacted in various intricate ways throughout the past hundred years in ways that make it really hard to divide ideology from aesthetics and industry. Soviet films of the 1920s had the task of shaping consciousness in a new post-Czarist territorially expanded nation but they also catalyzed innovation that changed the course of film history.
